Brief description of the project	The strategy of the rabbit breeding cluster project provides for the creation of a full cycle of the production process, starting from the cultivation of rabbits, to the production and sale of fur products, food, animal feed, fertilizers from waste products of rabbits. The global demand for natural fur products in 2022 amounted to about 3.3 billion US dollars. The leading importers of natural fur products are Asian countries ( about 2.13 billion US dollars), European countries (about 0.72 billion US dollars). The demand for fur products in neighboring countries and in the CIS countries may amount to 300 million US dollars. In addition to fur products, it is planned to produce other goods.

We are ready for further cooperation and implementation of joint investment projects.
